Mitchell will manage both campaigns from this city.

E. S. HARVEY IS DEPUTY WARDEN

McClaughy's Former Deputy To Be Reinstated at Once.

Madison, Wis., June 7.—Special.—E. S. Harvey has been appointed by the board of control to his old place as Deputy Warden of the state prison, from which he resigned during Warden McClaughy's term. It is positively stated that the warden-ship has not yet been considered by the board since McClaughy's resignation. There are two or three applications.

Madison dispatches confirm the report and say that Messrs. Grotophorst and Treat are in Chicago ostensibly to examine some machinery for the manufacture of pressed brick to be installed in the Green Bay reformatorium. With this object as an excuse it is believed that the two members of the board are on a tour of investigation to consult Mr. Harvey as to whether he is free to come to Wisconsin should the place be offered to him.

Mr. Harvey came to Wisconsin with Warden McClaughy when that gentleman took control of the state penal institution and remained in the employ of the state until last fall when he resigned. He had been employed at the Chicago House of Correction for some years previous to his coming away and after his retirement went back to that institution resigning from there three months ago. Warden McClaughy says that Mr. Harvey resigned from the employ of the state owing to some irregularities that had been discovered.

It looks now as though the Governor after the wide publicity that the removal of Mr. McClaughy has made, will try and rectify the matter by appointing to the position of deputy a trained keeper of criminals and one whom he can have to do his bidding should he see fit.

GOLF SEASON'S SCHEDULE MADE

Opening Series of the Mississippi Golf Club on Tuesday.

MIXED FOURSOME

Play Each Tuesday Until September 30 Next for Medals.

OUTSIDE MATCHES

Next Tuesday afternoon will be the opening day for events at the Mississippi Golf club. The numerous rains this season have caused the grass to grow wonderfully and most of the bare spots caused by last season's drought have become covered with a fine growth of grass. A number of the greens were in such shape early in the season that they were abandoned and temporary greens made for early play. The old greens have been fixed over and are now coming out in fine shape, and will be in first-class condition for playing in a week or two.

The fair green is in excellent shape and is as fine as on any course in the state. The rapid growth of grass on account of the rains, keeps the green keeper busy with the large lawn mower, keeping it cut so as not to interfere with good play.

The interior of the club house and the porches have been treated to fresh coats of paint and are quite inviting. A number of new members have been taken in this season and the outlook for a pleasant series of events during the summer is very promising.

The handicap and games committee have arranged a schedule of home events for the season, one of which will be played every Tuesday afternoon, with the exception of the Labor Day events which come on Monday.

These events are for club members and leave the balance of the week open for extra events and games with outside clubs. So far the only events with outside clubs are team matches with Rockford and Madison. The Rockford game will probably be played June 14th and the Madison game July 12th.

The list of home events are as follows:

June 10.—Mixed foursome handicap.

June 17.—Qualifying round for the Richardson medal, eighteen holes.

June 24.—First round match play for Richardson medal. Ladies approaching and putting contest.

July 1.—Second round match play for Richardson medal. Ladies' handicap match.

GAME WARDENS ARE WELL PAID

Employed by State, They Disseminate Executive Machine Doctrine.

SQUANDER FEES

Powerful Machine at Work at Expense of the Tax Payers.

IT IS A WEIRD TALE

It is a strange tale that emanates from Madison, the home of LaFollette and the capital of the state. A story that shows how very shaky the members of the executive machine feel their grip to be upon the voters of the state and what means they will use to try and stem the current of public opinion against their idol—LaFollette.

By some mischance the records of the pay rolls of the state employees is not directly under the supervision of the governor. It is public property and has not yet been legally annexed to the gubernatorial office and it was through these pay rolls that the latest move of the Madison machine has become known.

Wisconsin has fifty deputy fish and game wardens. These deputies are sworn to watch for any violation of the law, to arrest offenders and see that the game and fish of the state are protected and given a fair show with the hunters and fishers who seek to ensure them. Incidentally they have a certain amount of political work to do. Certain doubtful territories must be well supplied with LaFollette literature and the great praises of that wonder of Wisconsin, Robert M. LaFollette, extolled.

It does some good and while they are drawing their pay from the state as game wardens, receive their transportation on the railroads and have little or no work to do they can be well employed at the expense of the tax-payers in pushing the doctrine of the doubting and obstinate.

Fifty deputies and during the past eight months they have spent $40,618 in salaries and expenses. All this money coming directly from the treasury of the state where the tax-payers had placed it for state revenues. Money that was taken from the farmer, manufacturer and laborer for the expenses of the State of Wisconsin, all paid into the maws of the deputy wardens who are using their time and work in disseminating the LaFollette doctrine.

Had it been possible for the executive machine to cover up this trail by suppressing these accounts doubtless they would have done so but unfortunately this channel of obtaining news is open to every tax payer and the reports of the wardens themselves in stating where they have been on their trips merely blinds the untitled into the belief that they are really doing their duty.

It is a strange story. A story that tells stronger than words just the methods that are being used to promote the nomination and election of the present governor. Clever plans run by clever people. Political work is being done. Work that it takes money to do and it is being done by paid employees of the state at the expense of the tax payers of the state.

GOVERNOR DID A STRANGE THING

After Recommending a Mortgage Bill, Vetoes It When Sent to Him.

IS INCONSISTENT

First Measure Was Drawn Up in Accordance with La Follette's Wish.

TAX MORTGAGES

Senator Whitehead in his sixth letter takes up the subject of the Frost mortgage bill. He deals with it from the first inkling that such a bill should be presented as stated by the Governor in his executive message until the bill was passed by the house and then concurred in by the senate and sent to the executive chamber for LaFollette's signature.

The message of the Governor to the legislature on his veto of this same bill is dwelt upon without comment and the inconsistency of the chief executive of the state is clearly shown up.

True to the plan he adopted in his first series of articles Mr. Whitehead does not comment on the action of the Governor but simply states the bare facts in a scholarly way and leaves to the reader to judge for himself and draw his own conclusions.

The letter follows:

Janesville, Wis., June 7, 1902.

To The Gazette:

Many attempts have been made in the Legislature to provide for the separation, for the purposes of taxation, of the mortgage interest in land and the equity therein. Assembly Bill No. 234 was a bill of this character. It provided that the interest of the mortgage should be deemed an interest in real estate; that in case a valid agreement should be made by the mortgagor to pay all the taxes on the land, then the interest of both the mortgage and mortgagor should be assessed and taxed together against the mortgagor. This bill was framed after the Massachusetts law. The Tax Commission of Massachusetts, in their report of 1897, said:

"The present method was adopted in 1881. Before that time both the mortgage note and the mortgaged property were taxable for their full amounts to their respective owners. But we believe that the change in the tax law made in 1881 has tended to bring about a decline in the rate of interest on mortgages, security being the same; and this decline has been as great as could be expected in view of the conditions prevailing at the time when the law was changed."

Whatever may have been the precise effects of the act of 1881, we are of the opinion that the general principle which underlies that act should be maintained; namely, that there should not be taxes both on the mortgage and on the mortgaged estate, and that there should be only one tax on the property, whether under mortgage or not. The only question can be, whether the method adopted by the Commonwealth for bringing about this end is the best one.

"We conclude that it is inexpedient to make changes in the legislation of the Commonwealth as to the taxation of mortgaged property. In view of the experience of California, and of the general probabilities of the case, we believe that the taxation of mortgages by a certain and unfailing process would bring about a rise in the interest charge at least to the extent of the tax. The present method in this Commonwealth has now been in effect for a long series of years, and agreements on the basis of years, and been made to a great extent. It works, if not perfectly, at least smoothly and certainly."

The Wisconsin Tax Commission of 1898 discussed the subject of separating the interest of the mortgagor and the mortgage in the land mortgaged, and referred at length to the experience of Massachusetts and California. I quote from page 120 of this report as follows:

"We have seen that in California and Massachusetts provisions making the mortgage taxable and exempting so much of the value of the land as is represented by the mortgage, result in virtual exemption of the mortgage and full taxation of the land."

The Governor, in his inaugural message, remarked upon the subject as follows:

"It is asserted that it will raise the interest rate to make money and mortgages pay taxes. Possibly it may increase the interest rate somewhat to enforce the law as to money and mortgages. In California, where they have a constitutional provision that real estate mortgages shall be assessed to the owner of the mortgage, and the assessed valuation of the real estate reduced by the amount of the mortgage, two different claims are made by those opposed to the assessment of mortgages; one, that the interest rate is increased to an amount sufficient to make the borrower pay the taxes; another, that an agreement between the borrower and lender is insisted upon by the latter, requiring payment by commission or otherwise, sufficient to reimburse the lender for the amount of taxes which he is required to pay upon the mortgage. It is a fact, however, as shown by the last census, that the interest rate in California is lower than in

WONDERFUL FOR A NINE-YEAR-OLD

Granddaughter of John D. Hayner
Speaks at Decoration Services in Iowa—Her Story.

Decoration Day was fittingly celebrated in Waterloo, Iowa, and among the speakers at the public services in the afternoon of that day was Miss Ruth Hayner, the nine year old granddaughter of Mr. John D. Hayner of Janesville, who delivered the Old Drum Corps in a touching and pleasing manner. The account given of her wonderful performance and the piece itself appear below.

Waterloo Ia, Exchange. Then a little midget of a girl walked sprightly to the stage, jauntily tossing her pretty head, and proceeded to give a prodigious eat of memory and physical endurance for one of her years and slenderness. This little orator who brought the tears to the wrinkled faces of the grizzled veterans was Ruth Hayner and she spoke with dramatic effect that touching piece of literature, "The Old Drum Corps." The length of the selection and the demands for dramatic acting made the task a most difficult one, but little Miss Hayner arose to every demand of the occasion.

THE OLD DRUM CORPS.

Elsworth Kelley.
When the mail carrier drove up to the Post Office one morning in May and tossed his mail bag out upon the porch floor Uncle Natty Brown rose from his seat. After gazing respectfully at the mailbag a moment, he took hold and hefted it to form an idea of its weight.

"We're gettin' a purty heavy mail now, Mr. Perkins. A right heavy mail. Most everybody is taking a Cuban paper since the Cuban war was begun. Any news this mornin'—late'n they is in the papers?"

"Well, the Postmaster at the County-seat told me this mornin' fore I started that the Government is goin' to do some recruitin' to fill up the Kansas regiments. He said a recruiting officer is comin' to the County-seat and they want about fifty good men."

"How old they got to be?"

"Twenty-one, at least. I don't no how much older. Though I do have some doubts about you now, Uncle Natty—bein' s'pry enough?"

"Spry enough, who's s'pry'n I be? I want to ask that now. I ain't no awful old either. Only seventy-two last March. Gen. Scott was p't too old to take command at the beginnin' of the Rebellion, an' he was right, old or right he'd be now. And me and Danny and Grandpap all went thru the Mexican war an' all thru the war o' the Rebellion, an' we never got a scratch. An' we never was in a hospital—not once, was we, Danny? Was we Grandpap?"

"That's so,—its gospel truth, every word," affirmed old Danny, "an' what the 20th needs is an experienced drumcorps to put the right ginger in em right from the beginnin'." "It isn't everyone that takes holt of a pair of drumsticks that knows how to drum."

The mail-carrier drove off just as the members of the old drum corps of Taylor's corners were declaring their intention of offering themselves as recruits for the drum corps of the Twentieth Kansas.

The people at the County-seat were taking a holiday. The flags were flying bravely. The anvils from the shops were being used patriotically as a substitute for artillery. The boy band was doing its best to satisfy the hunger of the multitude for martial music. All at once there was borne down the street a new strain from life and drum. The strain drew nearer, piercing, insistent, triumphant. The file almost spoke the words "Oh, the girl, the girl, the pretty little girl, the girl I left behind me."

The steady boom, boom of the bass drum pulsed along the street. The snare drum rattled like a continuous fire of musketry. Uncle Natty had his lips glued to his fife, his long white locks tossing in the wind, his eyes fixed instead rapturous gaze on the big flag that was flying from the pole in front of the Grand Army Hall.

Old Danny with his sleeves rolled up to his elbows, was lifting his knees very high and setting his feet down quick and firm at every step, while he steadily beat his snare drum and at each interlude rolled his drumsticks until they gave off veritable exclamation points of sound. Grandpap Robinson was hammering bravely on the big drum and all the while the onlookers were cheering. Down the street they marched and played, down the street to the flag—pole.

When they had reached Uncle Natty gave the command: "Com—p—ny, halt. At—ten—shn."

A preliminary blast on the fife, a short sharp roll on the snare drum, a boom from the bass drum, and the old drum corps began their repertory with "Jaybird."

The sound of the music was in their blood. And as they played a circle of grizzled veterans elbowed their way around the players and stood there, holding the crowd back, a self-constituted guard of honor.

The old drum corps had finished playing "Rally Round the Flag," and the cheering evoked at its close roused the curiosity of the recruiting officer. He came out of the hall, pushed his way through, and beheld the corps. Uncle Natty at once recognized his official position and with a sharp blast silenced the drums.

"At—ten—shn. Officers' sa—lute." Each old man stood at attention and clumsily performed the required military evolution. Moved by a sudden impulse, the officer removed his cap.

"We've come to fine the Twentieth Kansas. We understand the Regiment ain't got a drum corps yet an' we're after the job."

The officer did not even smile when the ripple of laughter swept over the crowd.

"Come inside. I'll see you at once. You men have seen service before; I take it."

"Seen service. You bet we've seen service. That's how we come to be wearin' these blue clothes. We fit agin' in the Mexican war. We fit agin' old Santy Anny himself. An' we fit in the war o' the Rebellion from Wilson's Creek to the Battle of Westport. All of us. That is, we didn't exactly fight, but we was in the drum corps. An' we're ready to go agin'—all of us."

"I'm afraid—"

"Oh, you needn't be afraid of us. We ain't so awful old. I'm only seventy-two, me and Danny here—Gran—I mean Mr. Robinson here—may be a trifle older. But he's awful s'pry. Why, you ought to see him jump. Cap'n, it would jist do you good to see him jump. An' we all want to go together—me an' him an' Danny. Did you hear us play "Jaybird," Cap'n? Why, we can fairly make it talk."

"I was about to say that we cannot use you, for a reason that I am powerless to help, the army regulations have changed in some particulars since you were in the service, one of the changes has done away with the time-honored drum corps. Infantry orders are now given by bugle, just as in cavalry."

"Do you mean to tell us that Uncle Sam hain't no more use for drummer boys? Do you mean to tell me that the soldiers has to march without any body to play "Jaybird" or "Quebec" or "The Gal I Left Behind Me"? Do you pretend to tell me that there ain't no drum corps to beat taps or to sound the reveille or anything of that sort?"

"That's the size of it. The bugle sounds all the calls given by the drum corps."

"Well, I'm switched." Grandpap had at last spoken.

"I'd be glad to take you if we wanted a drum corps, but you can see how it is. So I think the best thing you can do is to go back home and send encouraging words to the boys who may enlist from your neighborhood; and when the news comes of a great victory, you can join in celebrating it. And when you play, play everything you know, not forgetting "Dixie." This war is going to wipe out sectional lines, and well, there's some fine, martial music in Dixie. I'm from Dixie land myself."

As the old drum corps filed out into the street again, some irrepressible called out: "Did he take you fellows, Uncle Natty?"

"No, ladies and gentlemen, he didn't. I don't mind sayin' it was a right smart disappointment. Fact is, we wanted to go powerful bad. You see, Mr. Perkins, him as carries our mail to the Corners, told us that the Twentieth didn't have no drum corps. So we come expectin' to join the regiment in that capacity. But now they blow the calls on the bugle, the Cap'n says. Of course, Mr. Perkins didn't know that when he told us. We'd have jist made things hum. We ain't so awful old. Me an' Danny's only seventy-two—an' we wanted to go powerful."

Then Uncle Natty stopped to knuckle a tear that somehow trickled down his furrowed cheek. Then Judge Strong stood up on a drygoods box and began talking.

"Friends and Neighbors—I myself was once a soldier of the rank and file, and I think I understand the patriotic spirit that prompted these old comrades again to offer their services to their country. The years have brought us gray hairs and weakened our bodies, they have not weakened our patriotism—they have only intensified our devotion to the old flag, and today we have beheld a beautiful example of that devotion. But I didn't get up here to make a speech. I simply want to propose three cheers for the old drum corps of Taylor's Corners. Now, then, Hip hip, Hurrah!"

When the cheering had quite exhausted itself in sheer physical weakness, some one called: "One more tune by the old drum corps."

Uncle Natty wiped his perspiring face on his sleeves and beamed a delighted smile upon his audience.

"We can't play much more. We've got to start home before it gets too late,—but afore we go, we'll give you a little concert—jist for luck."

Very softly the notes of Dixie were blown,—oh, so very softly. The drum corps gave off only faint echoes of sound. The old veterans recalled hearing it beautiful, defiant, challenging, but ever beautiful, along the shores of the Tennessee, at Chattanooga, by the Rappahannock. Then with chin held up high, Uncle Natty began "John Brown's Body." It was the drum corps' masterpiece. As Uncle Natty played it he thought of how he had blown its notes on tolls—some march and down the battle-line. It was the last tune they had played the day they were mustered out. The spirit of all these memories touched the soul with an indescribable exaltation, and he played as never before. Twice through he played it and the second time his audience joined in on the chorus, and it rolled out and away, a vocal and literal hal-lal-lah.

Then before the drum corps could realize what was happening, they were lifted bodily into a trap, Uncle Natty and Danny in front, Grandpap Robinson behind, and young arms drew them in triumphal procession, while the blacksmith fired his anvils at regular intervals. The war spirit and hero worship had broken loose and were rampant in the principal town of Short-Grass County, State of Kansas.

DREAMS OF THE GIRL GRADUATE

Next week the sweet girl graduate will be the center of attraction and though she may not set the world afire with the depth of her logic or a wonderful display of intellectuality when she steps before an audience of admiring friends, assembled in the High school gymnasium to see her graduate with due honors, certain it is that she will be handsomely gowned.

There is a corresponding certainty that the outfit which she will wear, seen and unseen, represents a neat sum of money to say nothing of the expenditure of time, labor and artistic taste which are absolutely necessary to the accomplishment of the successful commencement gown and its accompanying lingerie.

Time was when graduation exercises occupied one precious memorable afternoon and the fair essay writer rejoiced in the possession of one new dress, generally of white wool, with little or no trimming, as became a school girl in the estimation of her elders of that day. On graduation day her friends sent her bouquets and baskets of flowers, most of them gathered from the gardens of the donor. She rode to the opera house or the church where the exercises were held in a carriage which was paid for by the board of education and though rubber tires were then unknown the "hack" was the supreme joy of the occasion and in its mysterious depths the maiden, trying oh so hard to appear unconscious, knew for once, what it was like to be an aristocrat.

Time Brings Changes.

Only a short decade has passed since that time, but the graduation of ten years ago and the commencement of today seem at least a century apart. Now commencement occupies nearly a week to say nothing of the class parties and picnics which follow and carriages are so common a necessity that the school fund would soon become bankrupt had not the board of education seen fit to abandon the custom of hiring the carriages for the graduates.

Next To A Wedding

To the fair graduate herself commencement is only second in importance to her wedding day. To many of them it seems almost superior in importance for commencement is at least an assured reality and the other great day may possibly never be more than a hazy uncertainty.

For the young man who has successfully completed the High school course one black suit is sufficient to see him through everything from the night on which he gives his oration to the one on which he takes his best beloved to the class party.

But with the graduates of the feminine gender it is far different. Her outfit resembles nothing so much as a wedding trousseau and money is spent lavishly. This year's class promises to break all former records for handsome and costly clothes. It is a strictly up-to-date class and most of the members are excellent dressers. Many of the girls belong to the leading social set of that age of young people.

Many Pretty Gowns

Several of the girls have four new gowns for commencement week while the average number for each maiden is two, the commencement dress and a party gown. The majority of the commencement gowns are of very sheer white wash chiffon, an exquisite piece of goods which costs $1 per yard, but was two yards wide. Nearly all of the gowns are elaborately tucked and trimmed with lace or embroidery and flowers.

Millions of stitches have been taken in these dainty garments. One of them required ten days of labor for its completion and the making of many of them has taken a week. One is trimmed with seventy yards of lace, another has ten yards of applique which cost sixty-five cents a yard, another has the front of the skirt and the bodice trimmed with appliqued roses and still another is trimmed with a ruching of artificial flowers.

Handsome Party Gowns

Many of the party gowns are of silk or silk muslin and they are elaborately made and handsomely trimmed. No outfit is considered complete without an opera coat or cape and these wraps are perfect dreams of beauty. The majority of them are of broadcloth, silk-lined and two of these capes belonging to cousins are enriched with a border of hand-embroidery, the work of their grand-mother. Several of the young ladies have long coats of black taffeta, lined with colored silk and one especially handsome empire coat is of castor bengaline silk, lined with turquoise blue silk and having the rolling collar and lapels trimmed with tucked white chiffon and lace medallions.

Lace Trimmed Lingerie

The underclothing is no small item in these outfits for the transparent gowns require as much work and trimming on petticoats and corset covers as on the outside garment. Some of the suits are a mass of tucks and lace. It is said that the commencement outfit for one of the young lady graduates in this year's class will cost one hundred dollars, not counting the dress making bills.

Watches and Diamond Rings

The present given the graduates also remind one strongly of wedding gifts. Christmas time isn't a circumstance to commencement. For some time past the graduates have been receiving tokens from relatives and friends and many of the gifts have been valuable ones. A large percentage of the class, both young gentlemen and ladies, have received gold watches and chains, their parents being the donors in most instances. One young gentleman is rejoicing in the possession of a check for $50, the gift of his grand-mother. Several of the young ladies have flash diamond rings and one of them whose finger is adorned with a large diamond and emerald is kept busy asserting that it was merely a gift of friendship without the usual significance.

Some Other Gifts

Another graduate wears a handsome ring set with five large pearls and another beautiful gift is a magnificent opal ring. Brooches, silver spoons, books, silk hosiery, lace handkerchiefs and almost everything imaginable are included in the gifts which will be cherished by the graduates as valued souvenirs of commencement week.

MEMORIAL ORGANS TO BE DEDICATED

Impressive Services Will Be Held in the Congregational Church Tomorrow.

Services at the Congregational church on Sunday will be of special interest, both morning and evening, because the service will be devoted to the dedication of the new memorial organs.

On this occasion E. D. Jardine of Chicago will be the organist. Mr. Jardine is an accomplished musician and one of the best organ builders in the country. He has had entire charge of the building of the organs in the Congregational church, representing the W. W. Kimball company, and knows the instruments thoroughly. Mr. Jardine not only knows how to build an organ, but he can play one very well.

The formal dedicatory service will be held in the morning at 10:30 o'clock. The first fifteen minutes of the service will be devoted to the organ prelude which will be an improvisation by Mr. Jardine. This will be followed by the usual preliminary services including the doxology by choir and congregation, invocation, responsive readings, Scripture reading and the anthems by the choir.

Some Excellent Music

The musical program for the morning will include the singing of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" and "Zion Awake From Thy Sadness," by Costa, rendered by the large chorus choir under the direction of Mrs. A. O. Wilson, "I Will Praise Thee O God" by Lansing, sung by the children's choir with Mrs. W. S. Jeffris their leader, the Gloria by choir and congregation, the final organ number, which will be Haydn's "The Heavens Are Telling" and the singing of the dedication hymn.

This hymn was written by the Rev. Robert C. Denison to the music of an old church hymn by Baraby. Some of the verses will be sung as solos or by the choir alone and some by congregation and choir together.

Will Consecrate The Organs

During the service the congregation and pastor will accept the organs as offerings of memorial love, dedicate them to the glory of God and consecrate them to the services of the people of Janesville and of the Congregational church. A form has been adopted for this dedication and it will be repeated in union by the congregation. Rev. Denison has chosen "From Generation to Generation" as the topic of his dedicatory sermon.

A Service of Melody

The evening service will be a service of music with a few words by the pastor on "The Music of Life." The organ numbers will be "Music by Verdi, 'Abegetto' by Gullmant and 'Finale' by Lemmens. The anthems by the choir will be "I Love to Steal Awhile Away" by Dutton, "With Shented Swords," by Costa, "The Heavenly Song" by Gray, with solo by Mrs. A. O. Wilson and "Unfold Ye Portals" by Gounod. The children's choir will sing "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" by Pfleger.

To Use Echo Organ

The echo organ, which is resigned especially for the use of the children's choir, will be used exclusively in playing the accompaniments for their anthems, at both the morning and evening service.

Vice-President of Women's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

THERE ARE MANY sickly women between the ages of 45 and 55, but there are very few invalids over 55 and 60 years of age. The change of life coming to a woman near her forty-fourth year, either makes her an invalid or gives her a new lease on life. Those who meet this change in ill health seldom live ten years afterward, while a woman who lays aside the active duties of womanhood in health seldom fails to live on in happiness, years after she has passed 60. This is truly a critical time.

the change of life which was fast approaching. While visiting with a friend I noticed that she was taking your Wine of Cardui, and she was so enthusiastic about it that I decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now her a new lease on life. I do not dread it now, as I am sure that your Wine of Cardui will be of great benefit at this time."

Wine of Cardui is the remedy to re-inforce a woman against the shock that comes with the change of life. It re-establishes healthy functions after years of suffering. In doing this it has saved thousands of sufferers just in time. Do not wait until suffering is upon you. Thorough preparations should be made in advance. Begin the Wine of Cardui treatment today.

joining State, though this may be in part due to independent causes. After much discussion of the subject, Missouri adopted at the recent election a constitutional amendment similar in effect to that of California. Whatever may be the exact effect on interest rate as between the borrower and lender, the principle is to be commended, because it taxes each man justly on the record. The mortgagee has to the extent of the mortgage parted with an interest in the real estate. The mortgagee has acquired that interest, and each is taxed only upon his proportionate share. There is another aspect of the case worthy of attention. Any law which secures a correct return of property by the assessor is to be commended. It is a distinct gain for honesty, and lodges in the mind a more wholesome respect for the law. The individual possessor of wealth and the corporation of large capital engaged in evading and violating the tax laws are doing much to beget a disregard and want of respect for all law, and to excuse violation of its letter and spirit with all classes. But there is further answer to be made to be made to the objection to taxing money, because it is claimed it will increase the interest rate. It is a manifest injustice to each tax-payer to compel him to pay an additional tax, occasioned by allowing several hundred millions of money and securities to go untaxed in this State in order to maintain a lower interest rate for the advantage of the comparatively few who borrow. It is a matter for congratulation in Wisconsin that the great proportion of those who borrow, both upon real estate and collateral security, borrow for the purpose of improving property, extending business operations, and carrying and maintaining lines of credit in conducting every-day commercial transactions. If some addition to the interest rate in this State should follow the taxing of notes, mortgages and money as an adjustment between borrowers and lenders, it is a proposition which will admit of no dispute that the individuals, co-partnerships, and corporations borrowing the money have no right to ask the other tax-payers to contribute directly or indirectly toward keeping the interest rate down, or, in other words, to the payment of a portion of that interest.

This bill passed the Assembly on a roll-call vote. The vote stood: "Ayes, 58; noes, 11; absent or not voting, 31." When the bill reached the Senate, it was referred to the Judiciary Committee, and in due time reported back with the recommendation that it be concurred in. It was concurred in without opposition. The Governor returned the bill to the Assembly without his approval. His objections were as follows:

"In my judgement this bill is in conflict with the provisions of section 1, article 8, of the constitution of the state, which prescribes that 'the rule of taxation shall be uniform.'"

"No other rule than that now provided by law is prescribed for the valuation of real estate. A just and true valuation is to be put upon it the same as if it were unincumbered. The effect of this would be to assess real estate as it has been heretofore assessed, and to exempt the mortgage from taxation. The form of mortgage always used contains an agreement on part of mortgagor to pay all taxes on the mortgaged property. It may be safely assumed that this form would not be changed in this respect of this bill were to become a law. Although the bill contains the provisions for separate assessment of the interest of mortgagor and that of mortgages when agreement to pay taxes is not made by mortgagor, this clause would be wholly inoperative because the mortgagee will also have the power and the interest to exact such an agreement from the mortgagor.

"Another section of the bill declares that its provisions 'shall not apply to or effect mortgages executed prior to the time this act shall take effect,' which time is fixed to the bill on January 1, 1902. It follows, if the agreement to pay the taxes is made by the mortgagor, that mortgages executed prior to January 1, 1902, are to be taxed as personal property according to the existing rules of law, while those made subsequent to that date are wholly exempt from taxation, because the real estate is to be taxed at its true value both before and after that date, and after that date the mortgage executed is made a part of the real estate for assessment purposes. On the other hand, if a mortgage should be given after January 1, 1902, and agreement to pay all taxes on the real estate is not made by the mortgagor, then the real estate is to be assessed at its true value less the true value of the mortgage, but if a mortgage shall have been executed prior to that date, and none since, upon the same parcel of real estate, it is to be assessed at its true value without any reduction whatever on account of the mortgage, which also is to be assessed at its true value.

"In my judgement it is not permissible, under the constitutional provision quoted, either to tax mortgages executed prior to a certain date and to exempt those executed after a certain date, or to tax real estate upon which a mortgage has been executed prior to a certain date without any reduction on account of the mortgage debt and to deduct from the true value of a similar property similarly situated the value of a mortgage executed subsequently to such date in making assessments for certain purposes.

The Assembly did not pass the bill over the Governor's veto.

Cloudy tonight; fair, cooler Sunday.
SAVE THE BOYS
If there is anything in this world worth saving, it is a boy. And the question that is interesting thoughtful people is, how can this important work be accomplished?
It is generally conceded that the home is the one important haven, where the boy takes on development, and gathers strength of character and purpose, for the responsibilities of life and citizenship, and yet the fact remains that many boys coming out of good homes are a disappointment and the word failure is the only accolade accorded.
While these conditions are true concerning the good home, a great army of young men are rapidly developing without safeguards of anything worthy the name of home.
Two boys, of this class were coming down the street the other evening bent on no particular mission. One of them had a small room in a cheap boarding house, the other was living with his mother in a little cottage, where evidences of rigid economy were apparent, and where the evening to an active boy was not inviting. One of them said to the other: "Where shall we go tonight, Jack?" The reply was, "That church bell suggests that we might go to church, but I guess we won't."
After walking up and down the street for an hour and trying to engage a girl now and then in a flirtation, they stepped in front of a well lighted saloon and Jack said: "Lits go in, Joe, and rest awhile." Joe objected, and said he didn't drink, and his mother objected to his going into saloons. Jack argued that a glass of beer and a little lunch wouldn't hurt him, and they would be perfectly welcome.
Joe yielded, and spent his first evening in environments that have been the stepping stone to many a young man's undoing.
This is no argument against the saloon, whose traffic is legalized by public sentiment, neither can it be claimed that these two boys might have been safe but for the saloon. Better this kind of an evening, than the same length of time spent in one of the parks, forming an alliance with some innocent girl.
It isn't a question of temptation and pit falls for young men, but it is a question of what can be done to keep them out of the pit falls, and reinforce them against the temptations.
Many good people have the notion that the church should reach out its strong arm, and gather young men into the fold, and that a church which fails to do this, is remiss in duty.
While the church is accomplishing something along these lines, there are some things that the church can't do. It may be ever so popular and may be endowed with a spirit of earnestness and christian zeal, yet fail to attract and win a large class of young men, who never come within its influence.
The old saying, that "You must catch the thief before you can punish him," applies to the churches of today so far as young men are concerned. They fail to go to church, and the church fails to go to them, and the gulf that separates, acts as an impassable barrier.
It is well enough for church people to wrap themselves up in robes of righteousness and send out the broad invitation, "Come with us and we will do you good." The boys fail to come and the good is not accomplished.
The question is too large for brief discussion, and it is not the province of the secular press to criticize the work of the church, or offer suggestions for improvement, along lines that seem weak. The combined wisdom of the church should devise some plan to get nearer the boys of the land.
There is an organization, however, that is not a church, and yet that is doing practical work in an effort to save the young men.
The Young Men's Christian association is the half way house between the street and the church. It stands nearer the church than the street, because it owes existence and life to the church and yet in its management it aims to be so broad and liberal that all young men may be made to feel at home.
The Association in Janesville has been something of a by word by a good many people, who through ignorance, are possessed of the notion that it is managed on purely religious lines, and conducted very much like a church.
This class of criticism comes from people who are not supporters of churches, and who show their lack of interest by non-attendance. Many of them are parents whose boys are on the street, surrounded by influences that are harmful. The boys have no use for either the church or the Y. M. C. A., because both are criticized at home, and yet this class of people are anxious that their boys should develop good character and become good men.
Leaving the church entirely out of the question, and looking at the situation from the stand point of good morals, there isn't a parent in the city who can afford to be indifferent to the work of the Y. M. C. A.

The organization costs something to support, but it needs today the moral support of all good people much more than it needs money.
Its object is to win young men from the street and saloon and surround them with influences that will help them to become self-respecting and self-controlled men. An object so worthy that it should enlist the sympathy and hearty support of every parent.
The place should be made more attractive than the saloon, and every boy in the city should be made to feel that a welcome is extended to him.
The boys are worth saving, and the Y. M. C. A. extends to the home and the church a helping hand.

EARLY CAUCUSES
The caucuses and convention calls published yesterday, mean that the active work of the campaign in Rock county is to close on the 17th day of June. The Republican caucuses to be held on that date, will determine the choice of the county for governor.
There will be no side issue. The delegates elected will be either for Whitehead and conservatively republicanism, or for LaFollette and LaFolletteism. The campaign throughout the state is spirited and will continue to be until the delegates are elected. The outlook at the present time is favorable to the republican cause, and unless all signs fail, the conservative element of the party will win. It behooves every loyal member of this wing of the party, however, to be on the alert. The caucuses will decide the question and the convention will simply ratify the sentiment expressed.
Every republican who has the welfare of the party at heart, will contribute his vote at the primaries and every self-respecting democrat will refrain from interfering. The democrats will have their innings later and no republican will attempt to lend a hand.

THEY DON'T MIX
At the Republican county convention for St. Croix county, held a few days since, resolutions indorsing the record of Senator Spooner were defeated at the personal solicitation of Col. J. A. Frear, a member of Gov. LaFollette's staff and a member of the Republican State Central Committee. If, as is claimed, by many LaFolletteites, LaFollette is not opposed to the re-election of Senator Spooner, why are his nearest and closest political friends persistently interfering and opposing endorsements of the Senator? Behind all the efforts of Gov. LaFollette to secure a renomination is the determination on his part to secure a legislature that will defeat Senator Spooner's re-election to the Senate. There is much more than personal ambition in this opposition of LaFollette to the Senator's re-election. There is personal jealousy, spite and hate. Whether the great majority of the republicans of Wisconsin are willing to be the subservient tools to gratify this hatred, will be shown later.—Beloit Free Press.

The State Board of Control is being roundly denounced for lending itself to the dirty work of the administration. With LaFolletteism in the saddle for another term, the state institutions would become a foot ball. Reforms are dangerous in Kansas, and equally so in Wisconsin.

Dense ignorance prevails throughout the state, concerning the conduct of state institutions. Not one taxpayer in a thousand ever visits one of them. The governor is too busy to pay them personal attention and his board of control is not thoroughly well informed. Warden Mc Claughry's experience will let a little light into one of them.

Not for Spooner.
It is a notorious fact that the interests which are supporting LaFollette, in the present anti-convention campaign, are opposed to Senator Spooner. This has been illustrated on many occasions, one of the most recent occurrences being the St. Croix county convention, where resolutions indorsing Senator Spooner were rejected, though no reference whatever was made to LaFollette. Republicans of Wisconsin have reason to feel much pride in Senator Spooner and are anxious that he should be retained in his present position. With LaFollette successful at the next state convention, Spooner's place is in jeopardy. The only way to save Spooner is to defeat LaFollette. Just keep that in mind when you attend the caucuses on June 14 and see to it that sound republicans are sent as delegates to the county convention, republicans who stand by the principles of the party and by Spooner.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Will be Defeated.
All the political signs indicate that the governor will be defeated for renomination. It looks as if it is going to be a landslide for honest politics, honest methods and honest republicanism. It appears now as if Stephenson's millions, thrown broad cast over the state, will not be able to save the sham reformer. The First congressional district has declared for Whitehead. Milwaukee will surely be for Whitehead, the Tenth congressional district will be practically united against LaFollette. Even the Second district may be against the governor. Every republican who detests sham and hypocrisy and believes in honest methods and honest politics should see to it that LaFollette is buried in political oblivion.—Merrill Advocate.

Old Walworth Speaks
Walworth county, always the backbone of Republicanism in this state, has spoken its opinion of modern populism as typified by LaFollette. Of the delegates elected to the county convention to elect delegates to the state convention, 140 are for Whitehead and 20 for LaFollette. Some more noise about the corruption of the "league" is now due from the LaFollette tribe.—Sheboygan Telegram.

DROPPED DEAD WHILE AT WORK

Frank O'Brien Died Early This Morning While Wheeling Dirt at Cement Post Works.

Death in a sudden form came to Frank O'Brien, a laborer residing at 121 North Franklin street, employed at the Janesville Cement Post company, shortly after seven o'clock this morning.

O'Brien was about forty-two years of age and came to this city four years ago from Lake Mills. He followed the occupation of a laborer, and had just started to work for the Post company this morning.

He was employed with a number of other laborers, wheeling material for the walls and was apparently feeling all right. Shortly after seven o'clock as he was going along with a wheelbarrow, the other laborers near him, noticed him stop suddenly and without a word fall over onto the ground.

They went at once to his assistance but life was extinct, and all they could do to relieve him was of no avail. He was carried off to one side and a telephone call sent to the East Side Engine house for the patrol wagon, which responded to the call and took the body to Nelson's undertaking establishment, where it was prepared for burial.

His physical condition seemed to be all right, and as near as could be ascertained by the examining physician, his death was the result of heart failure. O'Brien is the second member of his family to come to a sudden end by heart failure, a brother having died under almost the same circumstances about six months ago at Lake Mills.

Since coming to Janesville the deceased has worked as a day laborer for different firms and has been employed by McVicar Brothers a good share of the time.

He leaves a wife and family and several brothers to mourn his sudden end. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Charles Krielow
Death came to Charles Krielow at his home, 255 Linn street this morning at 8:45 o'clock, bringing to a close a life of active usefulness. Deceased was fifty-eight years of age and had been ill for a long time. By trade he was a blacksmith and was one of the trusted employees of the Janesville Machine company. He leaves a wife, one son, Walter, and one daughter, Clara, to mourn his loss. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

MISS FIFIELD TO WED H. R. KING

The Betrothal is Announced at a Swell One O'clock Luncheon This Afternoon.

At a one o'clock luncheon, given by Mrs. Frank E. Fifield to a small company of young ladies, the betrothal of Miss Helen Copeland Fifield and H. Ross King was prettily announced.

The guests at the luncheon were a few of the intimate friends of the prospective bride and the happy announcement was made informally. The luncheon was one of the prettiest social events of the season. The handsome parlors of the spacious home at 201 North Jackson street were decorated with great bouquets of pink and white peonies, the air being heavy with their fragrance.

In the dining room the decorative scheme was worked out exquisitely in red, the flowers used being roses and peonies. The luncheon was an elegant and elaborate one, being served in eight courses. The service was especially dainty and attractive, the long table with its artistic decorations surrounded by the handsomely gowned young ladies making a very pretty picture.

A charming feature of the luncheon was the shower of congratulations bestowed upon Miss Fifield. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Fifield and the young man to whom she has plighted her troth is an enterprising young business man, a member of the shoe firm of King & Cowles. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas King. Both young people are popular socially and will receive the congratulations of many friends.

The guests at the luncheon this afternoon were Misses Beas Wilcox, Mabel Jackson, Katherine Smith, Margaret Bostwick, Ruth Culver, Emma Winans, Eloise Nowlan, Blanche Sweeney, Helen Nash, Helen Fifield and Catherine Fifield.

WILL DRIVE TO WASHINGTON STATE

O. E. Hanson, Wife, Two Children and Father, Start for the Pacific Coast by Wagon.

O. E. Hanson and wife and two children, accompanied by Mr. Hanson's father arrived in the city yesterday noon from Racine on an overland trip to Seattle, Washington.

They had a covered travelling wagon, drawn by two handsome bay horses, and carried a complete camping outfit with them. They left Racine on Tuesday and are making their way by easy stages towards the west and expect to be on the road about six months.

Mr. Hanson stated that they were making the trip on account of his health, which has been very poor for the last year or two. He thought that living out of doors for six months or so would restore his appetite and bring his health back.

The family had enjoyed the trip so far the only drawback being the numerous rains and the muddy roads.

Mr. Hanson has been in the jewelry business in Racine for the last nine years and undermined his health by close attention to business.

He has another outfit similar to the one he had with him yesterday, and will be joined by some other members of his family farther west. The reason that they did not accompany him from Racine, was on account of the wagon not being completed. The party left here about two o'clock and expected to make Stoughton or Edgerton by night, if not delayed by bad roads and rain.

BIRTHDAY PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS

Novel Social Given by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist Church.

No jollier church social was ever held in the city than the birthday party given by the Christian Endeavor society of the Baptist church in their church parlors last evening. To secure admission, members and friends of the society paid fees equal to half their age and dressed in accordance with the amount paid. Young ladies of twenty years were dressed like girls of ten, with "pig tails" hanging down their backs and Mother Hubbard dresses or sack aprons.

There was an unusually large attendance, nearly every one was in, childish costume and the entire company entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. When the festivities were well begun, the company was invited to gather round an immense birthday cake, which occupied the position of honor. The cake, which contained all sorts of souvenirs, was cut by Miss Jessie Butler and the pieces distributed. The corner slice containing the ring, which is supposed to be the symbol of a wedding within a year, fell to Miss Florence Isaacs, and the thimble became the property of Miss Elizabeth Palmer. The cutting of the cake and the distribution of the slices caused a great deal of amusement.

An impromptu program added to the evening's pleasure, the selections being in harmony with the nature of the party. The program included recitations in child dialect by Miss May Felton and Miss Imogene MacDonald, a vocal solo by Miss Nellie Smiley and piano solos by Miss Lou St. John and Miss Mary Granger.

Stick candy and lemonade were served as refreshments, such youthful games as drop the handkerchief were played with hearty abandon and everyone had the jolliest kind of a time. The fortune tellers' booth in one corner of the room was a favorite haunt and some of the most marvelous futures were foretold. The social was a complete success and the treasury of the society received considerable benefit as one of the results.

BREAKS HIS LEG

Steps Off a 'Bus and Slips on a Pavement, Fracturing His Limb.
George Depew, a stone mason, who has been employed on the city hall for the last six months broke his leg yesterday afternoon while dismounting from the rear step of the Myers House 'bus. The accident occurred on West Milwaukee street about four o'clock in the afternoon. Depew was riding down the street in the rear of the bus and when in front of Watson's restaurant he stepped off. The pavement was very slippery. As Depew jumped his right leg twisted around, breaking the bone a short distance below the hip.

He was picked up and carried to his room in the Williams Block and Dr. Joe Whiting was called in and set the injured member. The injury will lay Depew up for some time and will fall very hard on him as he is a first-class workman and was in demand at the present time.

THE GRANDEST

The Most Satisfactory and Safest Medicine any Sick Woman Can Take.

Thus Does a Prominent Brooklyn, N.Y., Woman, Speak of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

When a woman of the prominence and social standing of Mrs. Atherton whose portrait we are herewith permitted to reproduce, voluntarily furnishes us with a letter of such unqualified endorsement as the following, we feel that we not only owe her a debt of gratitude, but all women who are ill should feel under deep obligations to her, for she tells them in unmistakable words where they may look for a cure and not be disappointed.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt. Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For the benefit of suffering women I want to testify to the fact that I have by personal experience and by friends who have been cured by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound come to the conclusion that it is the safest, the grandest and the most satisfactory medicine any sick woman can take. Life was a burden to me five years ago, I felt so miserable with female troubles and irregular menstruation; to-day it is all different, for I am perfectly well. Dozens of my lady friends join me in singing your praise." Yours, FLORENCE ATHERTON, 47 Hoyt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

"A Boston Woman's Experience."

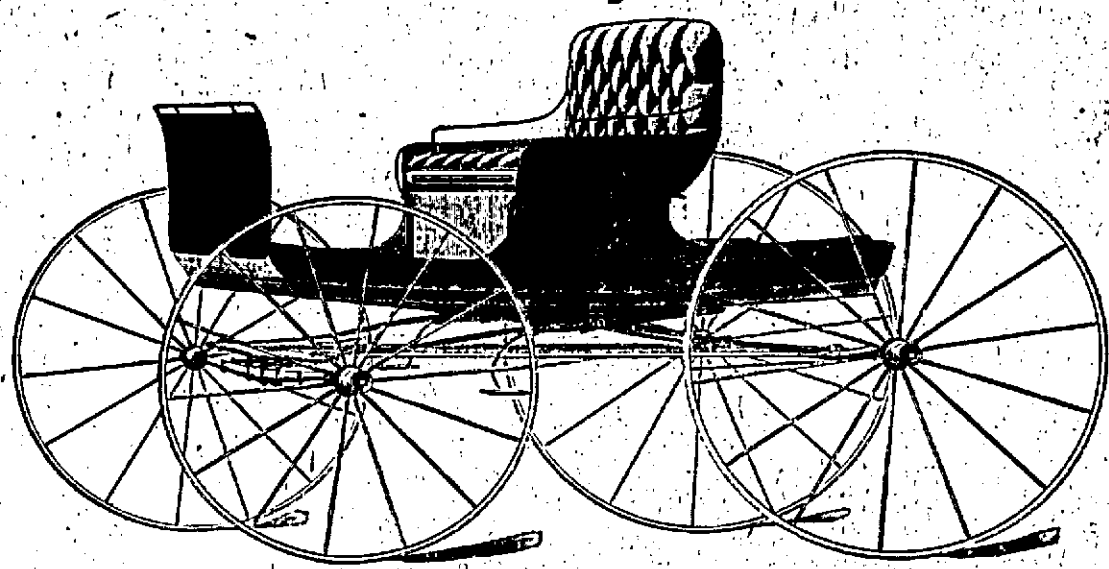

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. I was a sick woman when I commenced to take it. My trouble was female disease, and I had pain in my back and sides." The doctor said I was going into consumption; I had been married eight years, but had no children. I had some of the best doctors in the city, but none seemed to cure me, so I decided to take your medicine, and it has made me a new woman, and I now have a lovely little baby boy. I would advise all sick and weak women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." MRS. ALPHONSE CROCK, 18 Rockingham Place, Roxbury District, Boston, Mass.

Remember every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Her address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letters are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

CYCLONE AT MOUNT CARROLL

Three New Barns and Other Buildings
Wrecked in Two Minutes.

Mount Carroll, Ill., June 7.—Carroll county was visited by the second disastrous tornado in three years. A heavy storm came up from the southwest and descended upon the country estate of George N. Melendy, one of the finest in New York township, and in two minutes three new barns and a number of other buildings were in kindling wood. From there the cloud jumped eighty rods to Jenks Melendy's, where it badly wrecked his residence, and next struck the farms of Timothy Dunshee and W. E. Shoemaker, wrecking barns, then unroofed the Baptist church and tore one end out. The loss will foot up to $25,000. A cloudburst is also reported to have fallen in Chadwick.

Tornado in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 7.—A tornado, coupled with a rainfall unprecedented in the state, swept over Iowa and caused immense damage to this city and several others in adjoining counties. One death is reported and many persons are seriously injured, while the property loss will be several millions. The crops have suffered.

Imprisoned for Shooting Father.
Glenwood, Ia., June 7.—Earl Garman, who, on April 13, attempted to kill his father, L. M. Garman, a grain dealer, pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted murder, and was sentenced by Judge Thornell to serve five years in the penitentiary at Fort Madison. The shooting was a result of a quarrel over some property.

Quarantine Against Smallpox.
Columbus, Ind., June 7.—Hamblin township, Brown county, has had fifty cases of smallpox and three deaths. Six cases are now reported by the health officer in Van Buren township and the whole neighborhood is exposed. Strict quarantine has been established.

Weavers Are Restrained.
Providence, R. I., June 7.—An injunction was served on Peter McDermott and other members of the executive committee of the Olneyville weavers' strike, ordering them to restrain from entering Massachusetts to interfere with the company's business.

New Virginia Constitution.
Richmond, Va., June 7.—The constitutional convention adopted the new constitution by a recorded vote of 90 to 10. Two Republicans and eighty-eight Democratic members voted aye, the remaining Republicans voting in the negative.
